Risk Disclosure

1. Risk Warning

Investing in the financial market carries inherent risks. It is important to note that this statement does not encompass all potential risks and significant aspects associated with trading derivatives, futures, and leveraged assets. Before utilizing the services of the Company, it is imperative that the Client comprehends the nature of the contracts and the professional relationship being established. The Client must acknowledge the extent of their exposure to the risks involved.

Trading derivatives, futures, currency pairs, and other leveraged assets may not be suitable for all traders. The Client bears the sole responsibility of ensuring that their experience, objectives, financial resources, and other relevant factors align with the Company's business model. Prior to engaging with the Company's services, the Client must carefully consider these factors.

The Client must acknowledge and accept all potential risks, including possible losses and damages incurred during trading. The Company cannot guarantee profits or losses for the Client in any traded instrument. Due to the speculative nature of the Company's business, there is a risk of significant losses occurring within a short period. All instruments are subject to volatility, and rapid fluctuations can lead to unforeseeable events and outcomes beyond the control of both the Company and the Client.

The Client must understand that despite any information provided by the Company, the value of financial assets or instruments may fluctuate, impacting their investment. The Company cannot guarantee that information regarding the past performance of a specific asset will influence its current or future movements.

2. Execution and Margin

The Company has the option, though not the obligation, to provide the Client with information such as trading signals and market news. It is understood that the Client will make their own assessment and decision on how to utilize this information in their trades.

In the event that the Client's margin capital is insufficient to maintain ongoing trades, the Company may, at its discretion, contact the Client via phone call or email to address the issue. The Client may be required to promptly deposit additional funds. It is acknowledged by the Client that failure to act in a timely manner may result in the Client bearing full responsibility for any resulting losses.

The Company reserves the right to adjust margin requirements for its products, potentially leading to an increase in the Client's margin requirement. The Client may be obligated to provide additional funds to meet the new conditions.

For a comprehensive understanding of the risks involved, please refer to section 13.2, Risk Disclosure, in the Company's Terms and Conditions.
